Technoprobe Group

Technoprobe is a leading company in the semiconductor and microelectronics industry. Established in 1996 from an entrepreneurial idea of its founder Giuseppe Crippa, Technoprobe specializes in the design and creation of electro-mechanical interfaces called Probe Cards for testing chip operation. Its segment is that of testing non-memory or SOC (system on chip) semiconductors. The Group, the only Italian producer of Probe Cards, is among the world leaders in terms of volumes and turnover and includes in its portfolio of collaborations and partnerships the world's largest microchip producers in the microelectronics, IT and digital sectors. Probe Cards are high-tech devices - tailor-made to the specific chip - that allow you to test the functioning of chips during their construction process. These are technological projects and solutions that guarantee the functioning and reliability of devices that play a decisive role in the Information Technology, 5G, Internet of Things, home automation, automotive, aeroS.p.A.ce and other. Technoprobe is therefore an indispensable link in the supply chain for the production of those chips that are the heart of today's technological world. The Technoprobe Group is today a technological hub for research and innovation in continuous expansion with around 2700 employees (of which around 1700 in Italy), 4 research centers and over 600 certified patents. In Italy the Group has its registered office in Cernusco Lombardone (LC), a municipality on the outskirts of Milan, where there is also a production center which occupies a covered area of approximately 18,000 m². Furthermore, the Group has two other production plants in Italy: the first of approximately 3,000 m² in Agrate Brianza (MB), and the second of approximately 5,000 m² in Osnago (LC). Finally, the Group has 11 other offices worldwide, distributed across Europe (France, Germany), Asia (Taiwan, South Korea, China, Japan, the Philippines and Singapore) and the United States (two offices in California).
